OUR SUPERIOR POSITION.

I there claiming to disorganize Nevada when their personal position is taken into relation with conditions upon the country, which will, without question, remain subject to the present directing power for the next four years. There is not a people in the United States who will be less subject to commercial tyranny by commercialism than our people, nor are we dependent upon commerce for an existence. Mills may close down and banks may suspend payment, but Nevada will be very little affected in the business of life by these misfortunes.

The necessities of life may increase in value through the action of protected trusts. Labor may become scarce and its value may be reduced in a general contention to procure a crust of bread by those who must depend upon their daily earnings for a living. The great body of the people may be robbed of their earnings through trusts. Poverty may, like a gaunt monster, cover the land with its shadow, while the food the people eat may command high prices, and a train of hardships may follow in the wake of McKinley's reelection and the election of a Republican Congress.

Silver may continue at a low standard of value, through a denial of its right to a place as a money metal and general commercial devilry, may sweep the earth and cause blood and tears to flow in torrents to meet a desire for power and money by those directing commerce and the nations, but the people of Nevada will be more secure against its effects than any people on the globe. Our people know much about the power of boresim and its consequences. They know what it is to be oppressed through boresim by a great corporation, but it is within their power to relieve themselves of boresim within the State, and it is largely within their voluntary action to relieve themselves from the oppression that comes from corporate power.

The people of Nevada are miners and agriculturists. We have in our mines about all the metals that enter commerce. These metals are largely in demand for use in the arts, and they will continue to be in demand while the world moves. Our mining industries will continue to furnish the means to live upon, when other industries purely commercial have expended resources are such that a home market is furnished for a large share of the products of the farm. The mines will furnish the money to pay for them, which will place our people in a comparative position of independence respecting the necessities of life, and we are of the opinion the luxuries may be properly included.

There is not a people upon the earth who know their rights who would have submitted to the oppressive means applied to the people in Nevada, for the sufficient reason that no other people could have withstood the oppression and lived. Our people have been surrounded by wealth which they could gather and give to Caesar when he called to receive it, which was continually for a period including the youth and active manhood of the old settlers.

The application of the policy, take all there is in sight, or in a modified form, all the traffic will bear, will be a commercial system generally applied for the next four years through protected trusts. Nevada's natural resources are such that the people will not only sustain the robbery, but they will continue to develop sources of wealth which will make the means to procure a living plentiful among the people. A commonwealth whose soil will produce from forty to seventy bushels of wheat per acre each year will be very hard to overcome when its people are placed upon a like plane respecting the means of oppression with people whose lands produce no more than ten or fifteen bushels of that grain per acre each alternate year.

When it is known that all other farm products can and will be grown in like ratio to wheat, there is no cause for our people to feel down east over the future, except it may be in a humane sense when they learn of the misfortune of others caused by means of oppression which will be applied without mercy, provided the trusts continue to control government in the future as they have in the past four years.

Using Cheap Power.

Superintendent J. R. Ryan of the C. & O. shaft came down from the Comstock last night. He informed the JOURNAL that a 15 horse power motor was doing service in the machine shop and a 30 horse power motor in the carpenter shop. By the end of the month a 100 horse power motor will be serving the air compressors. Arrangements have not yet been completed to use electricity for hoisting purposes.

Fine Stock For Sale.

A. Banta has about a dozen thoroughbred short horn bull calves from twenty months old down for sale at his ranch on Truckee Meadows. These calves are in fine form and are equal, if not superior, to any short horn stock in the State. Those desiring such stock will do well to call at Mr. Banta's ranch and see these fine bovines before purchasing. Postoffice address, Reno, Nevada, Box 243. W. C. SHORT, Agent, Nov 17/01.

What a Difference in the Morning.

This is what the San Francisco papers said yesterday morning:

From the Chronicle:

"Nevada is scarcely better than either of the California universities' freshmen eleven."

"Stanford will play the team which Berkeley overhauled three days ago."

"Oregon is evidently superior to Nevada by two or three touch-downs in a game."

"Stanford should run up a big score."

From the Examiner:

"Stanford expects to have an easy victory over Nevada."

"To day almost every varsity possibility will be played."

"If in to-morrow's game Nevada is defeated by a greater score than 34 to 0, etc."

From the Call:

"The visitors are less experienced and younger at the game than the Californians."

"As the sagebrush eleven has already played a 0-32 game with California, this match will be an excellent opportunity to form comparisons."

They Struck It Rich.

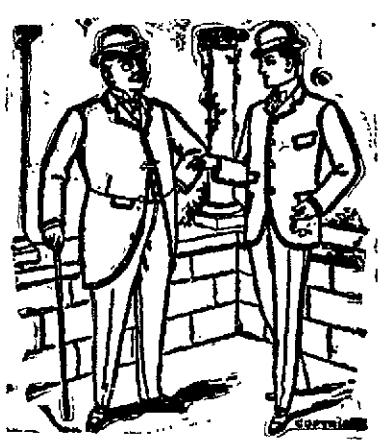

It was a grand thing for this community that such an enterprising firm as S. J. Hodgkinson secured the agency for Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, the wonderful remedy that has startled the world by its marvelous cures. The furor of enthusiasm over it has boomed their business, as the demand for it is immense. They give free trial bottles to sufferers, and positively guarantee it to cure Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, Croup, and all Throat and Lung Troubles. A trial proves its merit. Price 50cts. and $1.00.

Cheeks in payment of the initial dividend of $4,500 from the Rose-Homestead, whose properties are located near Eureka, Nevada, were very much in evidence yesterday.—Salt Lake Tribune.

Nevada Trails the Cardinal in the Mud.

The Mighty Stanforders Defeated by Nevada—Six to Zero.

Special to the JOURNAL.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Nov. 17.—Nevada completely outplayed Stanford's crack Varsity eleven on the campus today and won by a score of six to nit. Captain Burnett of Stanford left the field in tears. The Alumni coaches left trying to express themselves in profanity. The Varsity team left the field beaten, outplayed and disgraced while the men from the Sagebrush State, with their rooters, left cheering and triumphant.

The field was a sea of mud, but that was no excuse for Stanford. Nevada kept the pigskin in Stanford territory throughout the entire game and never was the cardinal near enough to scoring to give their rooters a chance to hope for a tie. The score was made in the first half.

Nevada had trespassed all over Stanford's lot, the pigskin several times being wallowed up to Stanford's fifteen yard line. Then with the ball on the twenty yard line Nevada failed to gain and Keddie dropped back for a kick the roll of mud went but twenty yards. Geissler was on the receiving end and, heless of the warning of his team mates to let the ball go over the line, he attempted to recover it and fumbled.

Nevada was on it three deep and the ball was on the one yard line. A groan went up from the bleachers. Mitchell failed to get through the center but Moran went over the line for a touch down in the next scrimmage. It was the first time Stanford's goal line had been crossed this season.

Keddie kicked an easy goal. Stanford fought desperately to tie the score in the second half but Nevada's goal was never in danger.

Nevada liked heavy going.

Nevada could cut through the big Varsity eleven like a knife through breakfast cheese.

Nevada could punt.

Nevada could get down the field on kicks.

Nevada could run ends.

Nevada could do as she pleased.

Stanford could do nothing.

Fumble after fumble, off side plays, holding and general off color plays characterized Stanford's game.

C. Smith, Nevada's giant guard, was the particular star of the line. He towered head and shoulders over both lines and during play wandered about doing as he pleased. B. Smith, Nevada's right half, went out early in the game with a dislocated collar bone and Captain Burnett of Stanford was forced to retire a little later. Perry, Nevada's left tackle, was also injured but continued to play to the end on one leg. Perry showed great gameness and, even after he was injured, hurled himself into every play with telling force. Nevada's ends, Smith and Moran, played like fiends and Hunter and Lawrence did great work.

On the campus at Berkeley today California put up a wretched game of football and was defeated by Oregon two to nothing.

IRRIGATION CONFERENCE

Congressmen Newlands Interested in a Vital Problem.

At 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon there was a meeting at Bryan hall to consider the question of water storage in Washoe Valley and the State. The meeting was called by Congressman Newlands, who is on his way to the Irrigation Congress which meets at Chicago on the 21st of November.

Mr. Newlands stated that both national platforms had declared for the reclamation of arid lands; that the Republican platform had inferentially, and the Democratic platform expressly declared for the storage of water by the national government. The purpose in calling the meeting was to ascertain the views of his constituents upon the subject. He stated that a national scheme of storage involving all the head waters of the Truckee river would require a great deal of time for elaboration; that the government was not accustomed to push such matters with the energy of individual enterprises; that it would require careful estimates and surveys before undertaking any work.

The question was whether the people wished all the storage of the Truckee river to be under national control, or whether they wished a part of it at least to be absolutely under their own control. He stated that he acquired years ago, Donner Lake, with the understanding that the people of the Washoe valley would acquire from the legislature the power to take it off his hands at cost and a low rate of interest; that his view was that good judgment required, so far as Donner Lake was concerned, that this country should own and control it, leaving to the government the other and more costly storage enterprises, and that he wished to know within a reasonable time whether they desired to take this lake or whether they proposed to have it incorporated in a national scheme.

Mr. Newlands went quite at length into the various plans for securing storage, and then asked the expression of opinion from citizens who were present as to the best method to pursue.

O. J. Smith expressed the view that it would be easy, by the co-operation of all those who used water for power and irrigation on the Truckee river, without great expense to any individual interested, to acquire and control Donner Lake, but the difficulty was in securing co-operation.

Mr. Beck, Major Long, Mr. Rinkle and Captain Linscott expressed their views. Captain Linscott, who has been recently engaged in the division of the Census Bureau relating to irrigation, gave it as his opinion that the co-operative scheme of effort would be much more desirable than national control, so far as the Truckee river was concerned.

Mr. Smith stated that he would take up the matter with the users of power on the river and see what they would do in the way of co-operative effort, and then would communicate with the irrigation ditch owners.

Mr. Newlands expressed confidence in national action, but said it was not probable that large expenditures would be made until the war expenses were at an end; the people were chaffing under the war revenue tax, and that Congress at this session would doubtless make many reductions, and that unless the large war expenditures in the Philippines ended soon, it would not be possible to secure very large appropriations.

A Treat for Our Theatre-Goers.

"For Her Sake," a new Russo-Siberian play, will be the offering at the opera house on Saturday evening, the 24th inst.

This is an attraction which has made its appearance in most of the leading cities of the country and is credited with securing a signal success. It will be played here at popular prices, a step which, considering the nature of the offering, may be regarded as a new departure. The production, according to all accounts, is distinctly a metropolitan enterprise, the cast being unusually large and distinguished by a number of well known names, the scenic equipment of an elaborate and expensive sort, while for the play it is said that it is a creation of originality, strength and considerable literary finish. It tells the story of the love of a Russian prince for a serf girl, and the love story is complicated with the political conspiracies for which the land of the Czar is famous. One of the dramatically strong scenes of the play occurs in a convict mine in Siberia.

The tender scenes of the play are said to be cleverly relieved by a strain of original comedy.

NEWS OF OLINGHOUSE

The Dispatch's Correspondent Writes About This Camp

W. H. Jackson has located a town-site in the gulch.

No placer work is being done, as there is no water.

John Sheehan is well pleased with the Crown Point and is working in ore.

E. Olinghouse has finished a run of about twenty tons which milled $23 per ton.

Of all ores reduced at the Ora mill since its construction the average value is $27.95.

W. C. Williams will soon make a run of 150 tons of ore. He has seven men employed.

Ore is being produced from every claim upon which work is being done. The bullion output is being increased monthly.

The gold production of Olinghouse Canyon mines amounts to over $100,000. There was much more of which a record cannot be had for business reasons of the producers.

We hear from reliable sources that a stock company is to be formed to build a stamp mill in Olinghouse Canyon and to equip the same with concentrators and other modern adjuncts.

The deepest workings in the camp is the shaft of the Ora, over 200 feet, good walls and $20 ore, improving with depth. This disproves the assertion that ore bodies do not "go down" in Olinghouse.

The sale of the late General Clarke's one-third of the Forlorn Hope has been confirmed by the court. Ike Lothrop bought it. Ike is an experienced miner and we look for good results under his management.

Charged With Embezzlement.

M. A. Bullard was arrested yesterday afternoon on a charge of embezzlement. He is alleged to have put to his own use a check owned by a man named Callahan. The defendant was released on $20 bonds.

AND THE BAND PLAYED ON

Everybody Felt Happy When the Good News Came in.

There was tumult in this city last night. When information arrived that Nevada had defeated the strongest football eleven on the Pacific coast excitement was intense. Another dispatch arrived corroborating the news that our team had shut out the mighty Stanford Varsity eleven by a score of 8 to 0.

Preparations were made immediately to hold a demonstration. The cadet band was called out. Torch and flambeaux were secured and the town was ransacked for fireworks.

At 6:30 the parade formed in front of the Wheelmen's hall. Everybody came down from the hill—faculty, students and preps. The Reno Wheelmen and townspeople generally fell in line.

The Co-eds made a fine showing. All the girls marched and cheered. They were as happy as birds in springtime.

Along the line of march red and green fire gleamed, and the crowd on the sidewalks yelled as loud as the paraders.

Jack Murray threw the result of the game upon his cinegraph screen and was given three rousing cheers for his thoughtfulness.

It was a great demonstration evidencing true college spirit.
